Tax Statements for County are In Mails

Personal, Half Of Real Estate Due by June 1

Schedule of Tax Rates Payable For 1954 Listed

Maynard Cannon, county collector, today announced that tax statements for 1954 taxes payable in 1955 have been placed in the mails. Real estate taxes may be paid in two installments—the first becoming delinquent June 1, the second Sept. 1. Personal property taxes become delinquent June 1.

Accompanying the tax statements are schedules of the 1954 tax rates payable this year. One may determine the rate he will pay on each $100 assessed valuation by doing a little adding.

All taxpayers pay the county rate, township rate, elementary school rate and high school rate—the latter three rates for their respective areas—and there is a fifth rate if one lives within the corporate limits of a city or village, which means inside Harrisburg, Carrier Mills, Eldorado, Stonefort, Galatia or Raleigh.

County Rate Lower

The county rate, which everybody pays, amounts to .486, which is 48.6 cents on each $100 assessed valuation. This is less than last year, when the figure was 53 cents.

Each of the 13 townships has different rates. All have a town rate, all except Long Branch and Cottage have relief rates, all have road and bridge rates, Long Branch, Galatia, Carrier Mills, Stonefort, Independence and Mountain have nickle township bridge rates, and all except Galatia and Stonefort have rates for improved road bonds which vary from seven and a half cents up to 22 cents.

In addition to these, some of the townships have other rates. For example, Harrisburg and Raleigh townships have a rate for the airport of 11.3 cents per $100 assessment, Raleigh and Eldorado have a 10 cent assessment for the Eldorado-Raleigh park district and Harrisburg has a 3.3 cent rate for its township park. These are besides the six townships listed previously for city and village rates, which provide tax monies for the operations of the cities and villages.

Harrisburg Rate

So if one wishes to determine just how much will be his particular rate he should add all the figures for the area in which he lives.

For example let us take a look at figures for property in the Harrisburg City Schools District 43 of Harrisburg township. Add all the county rates, which everybody pays, and the figure is .486. Then run down the township line to Harrisburg and do some adding across the sheet.

With a nine-cent town rate, ten cents for relief, eight and a half cents for road and bridge, seven and a half for improved road bonds, 3.3 cents for the Harrisburg township park, 11.3 cents for the Harrisburg-Raleigh airport, 46.6 cents for money to operate the city of Harrisburg, 81 cents

94 Per Cent of First, Second Graders to Take Vaccine Shots

Ninety-four per cent of the parents of Harrisburg city schools first and second grade pupils have signed consent slips which will permit their children to take polio vaccine shots, Ethel Mathias, school nurse, reported.

She pointed out that the percentage is well above the reported average for the county as a whole. First shots in the city schools system will be for Logan and McKinley first and second graders at McKinley school at 1 p. m. Thursday. Other schools in the system, Bayliss, Dorris Heights, Liberty, Lincoln, Bankston and Horace Mann, will get their first and second graders vaccinated at 1 p. m. Friday.

The McKinley group will receive second shots May 19, the Horace Mann group May 20.

SIAMESE TWINS—Siamese twins Napit and Prissana Polpinyo, born in Thailand and brought to Billings Hospital in Chicago, are shown before delicate surgery separated them three weeks ago. The girls, 22-months-old, were connected at the chest at birth. Hospital officials said the twins are up and walking about the hospital. They are expected to be released in about three weeks. ### RAF Plane 'Borrowed' by Homesick Airman Crashes Houses; 4 Dead

VALENCIENNES, France — A twin-engine British Royal Air Force plane "borrowed" by a homesick Indian airman who never learned to fly crashed on a runway flight from Britain early today, killing at least three persons and perhaps four.

In addition to four persons believed dead, three persons were injured seriously.

The untrained ground crewman himself was believed dead in the flaming wreckage of the Vickers "flying classroom" in which he took off from an RAF field and buzzed London for more than three hours Monday night in a hectic sky chase.

British officials said the registration marking WF426 on the plane which smashed into twin houses on a tiny village just outside Valenciennes tallied with those of the plane taken by the airman from the British field.

Skipped Across Channel

The plane's erratic flight across Britain was watched on radar screens for four hours as two nations fought to save the untrained pilot.

Members of the Harrisburg Lions club started work today soliciting funds for the Boy Scouts.

Having offered to assist in the annual financial campaign for the Boy Scouts, the Lions club was asked to take over the special gifts part of the drive.

At Monday night's meeting members were given the names of business firms and individuals to contact for pledges so the work of scouting can continue in Harrisburg and Saline county.

The Lions also voted to accept an offer to operate the concessions at the stock car races each Saturday night at the Saline county fair grounds. Racing starts Saturday, May 7.

New Council to Meet Saturday

The new city council will hold its first meeting at 2 p. m. Saturday, at which time it will formally organize. Mayor-elect Claud Gibbons said today. An informal meeting was held yesterday.

It already has been announced that lineup will be: Don Williams, commissioner of finance; Charles R. Hine, commissioner of public safety; Sneed Jordan, commissioner of streets and alleys; and Morris Darnell, commissioner of public property.

State to Halt Surplus Food To 10 Counties

IPAC Says Unable To Afford Plan on Statewide Basis

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois Public Aid Commission next month will halt its federal surplus food distribution in 10 counties with little chance seen for resuming the program.

Garrett W. Keaster, executive secretary of the commission, said the commission decided at its last meeting to halt the food distribution.

He said commission members felt if the surplus food program couldn't be undertaken on a statewide basis "then we shouldn't undertake it for part of the state only."

"The distribution of surplus commodities was undertaken in several southern Illinois counties on an experimental basis to tide those counties through an emergency last winter," he said.

Keaster said distribution of foodstuffs to recipients in eight counties was costing the state about $7,500 a month but it would cost $100,000 a month for statewide distribution.

"We don't have the money for that sort of thing," he said. "The program in eight counties will be partly continued through May until the supplies we have on hand are exhausted."

He said there was no provision for a food distribution program in the 1955-57 budget before the Legislature.

The surplus food program was started last fall. Throughout most of the winter these counties received beans, butter, cheese, dry milk and shortening:

Christian, Franklin, Hardin, Jefferson, Macoupin, Perry, Saline and Williamson.

In April, two other counties were added to those getting surplus foods, Montgomery and Pope.

The food was furnished free by the federal government. It was shipped to warehouses at Springfield and Johnston City, then trucked to the counties and distributed by contractors hired through local welfare agencies, Keaster said.

In March, 198,000 pounds of commodities valued at $79,657 was distributed.

Keaster said persons on public aid rolls would receive a "full budget" for food and the surplus food had been "over and above the regular food budget."

He said the surplus food program, however, had permitted the IPAC to help many persons not actually on relief rolls but unemployed or with only occasional income. In southern Illinois he said this included unemployed miners and union laborers drawing unemployment compensation.

Residents of the village said the plane swerved toward them and then made off uncertainly as if the pilot were trying to decide whether to land. As they watched the plane sent out flares and then dropped from sight.

It crashed into the roofs of two houses and exploded, turning the plane itself and the houses into a mass of ruins. The pilot's body was not found but officials believed he died in the wreckage and did not parachute.

A woman and two children were killed. Three other persons were injured seriously.

The RAF plane was a big twin-engine military version of the Viking civil airliner called the Varsity. It was equipped with the latest navigational equipment and was fitted with bomb bays for practice bombing runs.

The RAF identified the pilot as Manik Agnani, a 20-year-old enlistee from India who had taken very few flying lessons. He took off without training and without authority from Thorney Island RAF Base near Portsmouth in southern England.

Friends of Agnani, a young aircraft mechanic, said he had been saving his air force pay toward the fare back home to India and that he often talked of returning home. But he spent some of his savings to take civilian flying lessons on his off duty time.

County charges found Mrs. Henriette Gillerand, 54. In the adjacent house lay the bodies of two young neighbors, 10-year-old Wladislaw Mlynczak, and 8-year-old Stephanie Mlynczak.

File Charges Against Alabama Couple

Sheriff William T. Barrett and Deputy Sheriff Everett Sneed last night went to a spot on Route 45 three miles south of Harrisburg and found a car stopped partially on the pavement.

Berlin, Divided by 'Little Iron Curtain', Rises from Ruins 10 Years After War II

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

BERLIN (UP)—Berlin, devastated and divided, is rising swiftly from its ruins 10 years after the end of World War II.

A "little Iron Curtain" slices it in two. Its free Western sectors are isolated 110 miles deep in Soviet-occupied territory.

Two city governments, two economic systems, two worlds struggle for mastery in what was once the proud capital of the German Reich.

Ten years ago the capital of Hitler's Nazi empire was in its death throes under Russian attack.

The United States and Russian armies had met on the Elbe River on April 25.

Adolf Hitler was four days from his death.

It was at about 3:30 p. m. on the afternoon of April 30, 1945, that Hitler shot himself through the mouth in the air raid bunker of his chancellery.

His mistress, Eva Braun, whom he had married the night before, took poison.

Aides who heard the suicide shot and hurried into Hitler's room found him and Eva Braun lying on a bed-stained sofa.

The bodies were taken outside, wrapped in blankets, to a small garden in front of an emergency bunker exit. There gasoline was poured on them and they were burned.

Hitler's death never has been officially certified. But only a few weeks ago a dentist, testifying in a law suit, said that he had identified Hitler's and Eva Braun's false teeth which the Russians found in the garden funeral pyre.

This correspondent was one of eight who were flown here with German Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel for the final surrender.

Keitel, the German commander in chief, had surrendered to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's Western Allied armies at Rheims, France, on May 7.

The final ceremony took place at the headquarters here of Soviet Marshal Georgi Zhukov, now Russian defense minister.

Keitel screwed his monocle with stilled deliberation into his right eye, slammed his baton loudly on the table, sat down and signed the surrender document.

Eighteen months later Keitel died on the gallows as a war criminal.

Berlin then was still in smoking ruins. It was Stalingrad, and Coventry, Cologne and Warsaw all heaped into one a hideous, nightmarish labyrinth, seemingly beyond all hope of repair.

The Berlin of 1955 is a tortured city still — tortured by the "little Iron Curtain" that cuts across the front of the Brandenburg Gate and the Potsdamer Platz and divides the city into Communist and Western sectors.

But Berlin is pulsating with life again. In the Western part, the cafe tables are out again along the Kuferstendamm sidewalk in the spring sunshine. Big 10 and 15-story buildings are rising.

The shops display the same expensive goods you may see on Fifth Avenue in New York.

At night the neon signs make the "Kudam," as Berliners call it, a sea of light that conceals the plaster facades of the shops and the empty bomb lots. The little cafes and nightclubs in the side streets are jammed.

Life is slower in the Communist sector. The ruins of Hitler's chancellery have been carted away to make the Soviet war memorial in the Treptow district. The shops are less well stocked than those in the free West, and the people are poorer dressed. There are big red Communist propaganda slogans everywhere.

At the city border, Western and Communist guards glare at each other.

German Native Addresses Rotary

Miss Gisela Pappert, native of Germany who has made her home in this country for the past two years, was guest speaker at the Harrisburg Rotary club's Monday noon luncheon meeting.

She was introduced to the group by Lowden Pankey. Miss Pappert is sponsored in this country by Mr. and Mrs. Paul LaVie, and has applied for citizenship papers.

Miss Pappert, who speaks English very well, spoke briefly about her native land and told of the section of Germany (near Frankfurt) where she was reared.

Most of the program time was devoted to questions asked of the speaker, and she graciously answered all to the best of her knowledge. Other guests present were Donald Rice and Paul Bedell, Belleview.

Soviets Agree to West Proposal for Vienna Conference

MOSCOW (UP)—The Soviet Union agreed today to an ambassadors' conference in Vienna proposed by the Western Allies to draft a treaty freeing occupied Austria.

The Russians also accepted the Western proposal that the Vienna conference of ambassadors begin May 2.

The Soviet government made its position known in identical notes to the United States, Britain and France. The notes pointed out, however, that the Soviets did not believe the conference was the "shortest way to reach the necessary agreement on the Austrian problem."

The Western proposal was made in notes from the Big Three on April 22.

Dulles also told a news conference he was not ruling out the possibility of direct U. S. talks with Red China.

He said the United States wanted some assurances that the Chinese were sincere in saying that they were willing to negotiate a peaceful settlement of Far Eastern problems.

The United States does not negotiate when a pistol is aimed at its head, Dulles said. He said a cease-fire in the Formosa straits was an indispensable prerequisite of a Far Eastern settlement.

Senator George's Proposal

Dulles made the statements in response to questions about this country's attitude toward Red Chinese Premier Chou En-lai's weekend statement that he is willing to undertake direct negotiations with the United States on Formosa.

The State Department had said in a statement Saturday that it would "insist" on Nationalist China participating "in any discussions" concerning Formosa.

The Red Chinese government promptly termed this an unacceptable condition.

Chairman Walter F. George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee earlier today called on the State Department to seek a Far East conference with Red China without insisting that Nationalist China be represented.

George, like Dulles, said that a "de facto cease-fire" — that is, an actual end to the shooting — in the Formosa straits must be an advance condition for any such negotiations.

Dulles was asked at his news conferences whether he "ruled out" the possibility of bilateral talks with Red China.

Too Grave for Protocol

Dulles said he did not rule out such talks so long as they did not infringe on the interests of Nationalist China.

Dulles indicated that the United States would be willing to discuss a cease-fire with Red China without Nationalist China being present. But he said this would apply only as far as a cease-fire would involve only the interests of the United States which has a broad defense commitment in the area.

He said that when the issues are as grave as they are now in the Far East the United States is not disposed to stand on protocol.

He said this country would welcome a public declaration by Red

State police said Mrs. Rodman was riding in a car driven by Mrs. Madge Flenner, 58, Energy, who also was injured. Authorities said the driver of the other car, Verle Hall, 52, Marion, was not hurt.

Pleads Innocent to Illegal Sale of Liquor

Frank Greeley, who resides in Stonefort township, yesterday pleaded innocent to a charge of illegal sale of alcoholic liquor when arraigned in county court and his bond was set at $1,000.

Greeley was arrested by the sheriff's force Saturday night following a raid on his place.

John L. Sullivan of Carrier Mills was charged with writing a fraudulent check in an information filed in county court. He was charged with giving a bad check for $30 to the Highway grocery at Eldorado.

Secretary Does Not Rule Out Direct Talks

Says U. S. Wants Assurances That Chinese are Sincere

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today the United States will "try to find out" whether Red China is sincerely willing to negotiate on Far Eastern problems including Formosa.

Dulles also told a news conference he was not ruling out the possibility of direct U. S. talks with Red China.

He said the United States wanted some assurances that the Chinese were sincere in saying that they were willing to negotiate a peaceful settlement of Far Eastern problems.

The United States does not negotiate when a pistol is aimed at its head, Dulles said. He said a cease-fire in the Formosa straits was an indispensable prerequisite of a Far Eastern settlement.

Remodel Buildings For Employment Service Offices

West Poplar street buildings are being remodeled for the offices of the Illinois Employment Service and the Division of Unemployment Compensation which now are situated in the Rose building on North Main.

Reason for the move is the need for additional space, it was learned.

Workmen already are busy on the buildings to be occupied at 18 and 20 West Poplar street, owned by O. L. Turner Sr. and Guy McCormack. The offices will occupy the lower floors of both buildings.

It was learned that the offices will be at the new location by July 1.

Susan Hayward Takes Overdose Of Sleeping Pills

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Actress Susan Hayward was rushed to a hospital suffering from an apparent overdose of sleeping pills early today after her mother called police and said "I think my daughter is going to commit suicide."

Police broke down a patio door at Miss Hayward's Coldwater Canyon home and found the actress unconscious and curled on her living room floor. She was rushed to North Hollywood Receiving hospital, where her condition was pronounced "fair."

The 35-year-old actress later was transferred to Cedars of Lebanon hospital for further treatment.

DREW PEARSON Says: Barkley Advises Truman Not To Mail His Letters; Moscow Outbids U.S. In Long-Range Jet Bombers; Senate Prepares Bill To Protect White-Collar Workers.

WASHINGTON — Ex-Vice President Alben Barkley told his old friend, ex-President Harry Truman, a story at a dinner last week in Washington — a story with a moral to it—about Westbrook Pegler.

Barkley told about a column Pegler had written which was very unfair and which made him furious. So he sat down and wrote Pegler a letter.

"It was quite a stinging letter," Barkley said. "I began it with 'Dear Peggie,' and ended it with 'if your syndicate gets what your columns are worth, you'd be a pauper.'"

"But," continued Barkley, looking at his old friend Truman, "I never mailed it. Unlike you, Mr. President, I never mail my letters."

RUSSIAN MAY DAY

The American public may not know it, but the power pendulum is swinging over toward Soviet Russia as far as air strength is concerned.

Last May Day the Russians flew a giant jet bomber, the size of a B-36 over Moscow. It was their first and only long-range jet bomber, known as Type 37.

This May day the Russians will have 15 of these type 37 giant jets. In contrast, we had two B-52 jet bombers of the same size a year ago. Today we have only three. In other words, the Russians are outproducing us 14 to one!

PHONY DEMOCRAT

White House foreman Sherman Adams has come up with a counterfeit Democrat to replace Securities and Exchange Commissioner Paul Rowen who made the mistake, in Adams' eyes, of opposing the bitterly controversial Dixon-Yates contract.

By law, Rowen's post must go to a Democrat. The SEC is required to have two Democrats and three Republicans—while the GOP is in power.

However, Adams has picked a synthetic Democrat, Connecticut's ex-Congressman Johnny McGuire who made a deal to support GOP Governor John Lodge for re-election. McGuire's reward was to be a juicy job in Lodge's administration.

Unhappily for McGuire, however, Democrat Abe Ribicoff defeated Lodge for the governorship. And McGuire became a lobbyist in Washington. He represents Franco Spain and the big natural gas interests which are trying to overrule the Supreme Court and prevent price regulation by the Power Commission.

An independent quasi-judicial agency, the SEC is no more supposed to be run by the White House than is the Supreme Court. Yet Sherman Adams put pressure on the commissioners to approve the Dixon-Yates contract, awarded without competitive bid to a private power combine to supply power for Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Paducah, Ky., atomic plants.

However, Commissioner Rowen

At the present time Mrs. Wright is the midwest director of the Institute of International Education. Her extensive travels, coupled with her career of action in foreign policy, give her a first-hand knowledge of the current world scene.

Present to explain how the Illinois Mother is chosen will be Mrs. Robert Roper, Kewanee, regional chairman of the American Mother committee.

Entertainment features will include a national dance by SIU Arabian students; and musical numbers by a trio composed of Mrs. R. V. D. Giddings, piano; Mrs. William McLeod, violin; and Mrs. Paul V. Isbell, cello.

Desert Winds Rip Tents At Atomic Site

By United Press

High winds swept from northern California into the Southwest Dust Bowl today, ripping up 100 tents at the Nevada atomic site and postponing a major A-blast along the way.

The raking winds played havoc in the San Francisco Bay region, swept over mountains to the accompaniment of heavy snows, and threatened new dust storms in drought-plagued Oklahoma today.

The storm also granted a brief respite to Survival Town, U. S. A., the model community on Nevada's Yucca Flat which is doomed to go up in an atomic explosion.

The blast had been scheduled to go off today, but government scientists postponed it at least 24 hours when winds up to 75 miles per hour were forecast.

Tents Flattened

But the winds showed no mercy on the civilian defense experts who came to watch the explosion as gusts up to 50 miles per hour flattened more than 100 of the 300 tents at Camp Desert Rock.

Many of the tent city's 500 occupants were sleeping when the tents gave in and a dozen of them received treatment for dust particles blown in their eyes.

Although the Atomic Energy Commission hoped to touch off the blast Wednesday, gamblers at nearby Las Vegas were giving 5-1 odds that the desert winds would postpone it until Friday morning or later.

The high winds also promised to provide a dramatic demonstration for Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson, who headed into the heart of the Colorado - Kansas drought area today.

Benson's purpose was to find ways of stopping the crop-ripping dust storms which threatened the area again.

DEATH OF A LEGEND

By WILL HENRY

THE STORY: After obtaining parole, which Cole Younger believed would end his troubles as outlaw guerrillas, Jesse James and his band run afoul of federal troopers as they ride home. His mates escape capture, but Jesse himself is seriously wounded through the chest.

It was 11:00 a. m., Thursday, April 21.

Union Provost Marshal Major J. B. Rogers was moving his chair back, staring up at the six-foot, six-inch, ex-Confederate guerrilla.

"Morning Major, sir," said Cole. "Come along outside. We've brought you what's left of one of your parols."

At six minutes after 11, Major Rogers stood outside his office beside the Widow Bowman's spring wagon, while the gathering curious gaped and the hard-eyed escort horsemen glared stonily over their heads.

After 11, he was back at his desk again, his pen scratching a frowning signature to the Area Order passing one spring wagon, contents and driver, along with one disgruntled Union sergeant and eight uphappy, escort troopers, from Lafayette into Clay County. It was 11:08 when he folded the document, looked up at the waiting guerrilla.

"Mr. Younger," he said quietly, "I would advise you not to linger on the way. This is a military pass for you and the wagon. The sergeant and his squad will see that it is honored as far as the county line. But I'm sure I don't have to remind you of the civilian temper your followers may encounter. If you heed my suggestion, you will disperse your men the moment you leave Lexington. This area is full of patrols not under my command. Therefore, I cannot, as you have discovered, guarantee your paroles even in Lafayette County, let alone outside it."

The details of the following three months, were they known, would by themselves make the most incredible novel of all. Under the simple title of "The Ninety Days of Jesse James" they would tell more of grueling hardship, heroic sacrifice and unbelievable courage than all the guerrilla raids, bank robberies, train hold-ups and highway outrages combined.

They would tell of Cole Younger bringing his dying father safely to Centerville only to find Dr. and Mrs. Samuel hastily departed from the anti-Southern climate of the post-bellum border for the relative security of Nebraska and the Indian Territory. Of his returning to Lexington and gaining from a reluctant Major Rogers extended permission to leave Missouri and attempt to bring his stricken comrade to his distant parents. Of his subsequent regathering of Jesse's remaining faithful, less by three now that Gregg had suddenly disappeared and George Shepherd and Clet Miller had fled to the sanctuary of their kinkfolk in Logan County, Kentucky. And of their setting out, the other, constant three, Cole, Oil Shepherd, Jim Cummins, through the drear rain of April 29, upon the 500-mile wagon drive to Rulo, the tiny Nebraska hamlet to which it was rumored Jesse's family had gone.

And beyond these brief facts only one other is known.

On Aug. 14, 1865, the western mail packet Yellowstone Belle reversed her stern paddles and backed into a routine landing beneath Kansas City's crown of red clay bluffs. The leadman in the bow heaved his line ashore. As the cleated bridge of the gangplank was dropped, the grateful cry of "Plank's down!" arose among the deck passengers, signaling the end of the weary voyage.

Fate had a savior ready in the wings, waiting for Jesse James. She was barely 17.

Her name, too, was Zerelda! He smiled, that queer little smirking smile of his reserved for those signal occasions which might strike the grim iron of his fancy, or touch the guarded vein of his hard humor.

"Jesse James, the Great Missouri Raider," at your service, ma'am," he said. "You'll excuse me if I don't get up. I've bin poorly of late."

She had never seen him before, though the recountings of his heroic adventures in the lost cause of the Confederacy were a part and parcel not only of her general day but, in the particular case of the John Mimms' household, a matter of actual blood heritage. Her mother had been born a James, the younger sister of that same order, largely forgotten Baptist minister who had died so quietly in faraway California—the Rev. Robert James. As a full, first cousin, the exploits of Aunt Zerelda Samuel's second-born were as familiar to her fancy as the faces of her own family in fact.

The peculiar circumstance of her never having seen her notorious cousin, though she was but a year younger than he, is a remarkable testament to Jesse's passion for anonymity.

It should be of more than passing note to mark this peculiarity, this passion, of Jesse's. Other than a reluctant handful of ex-war comrades, fellow guerrillas and actual gang members, not 15 persons in the state of his birth could, or would, take oath to the identity of America's most famous outlaw. And, indeed, only the two Zereldas, his lean, gray mother and the slender, golden-haired girl who stood now at his bedside, were to come forward within the final hour of that sudden inquest at St. Joe and state, with legal certainty, "Yes—this is Jesse James."

More than any other single factor in this inherent wild-animal shyness, this inborn distrust of people was to remain the simple secret of his success, the reason for his survival.

Romonosky Hurls In Relief Role For Houston Club

John Romonosky, Harrisburg professional baseball player with Houston in the Texas league, helped his team to a 9-6 victory over Beaumont last Thursday.

Romonosky, a farm hand of the St. Louis Cardinals, hauled 5 1-3 innings in a relief role, allowing just one hit. During his stay on the hill he walked two and struck out three. At bat he had one hit, a double, in three tries and scored a run.

With his team trailing, Romonosky was taken out for a pinch hitter in the eighth. Houston rallied again in the ninth to take the decision, but Romonosky was out of the game and failed to get credit for victory despite his fine performance.

Harry Cranson's SCOREBOARD

Richards is Amazed That Orioles Could Buy Pitcher Like Palica

By HARRY CRANSON
NEA Sports Editor
NEW YORK — (NEA) — Off his five-hit and winning performance against the Yankees, Ervin Martin Palica easily could be Paul Richards' first reclamation project in Baltimore.

"Palica is going to be great... just great," says Professor Richards, seemingly amazed that he could purchase a pitcher of such quality.

Richards gambled in turning Bob Turley over to the Yankees in the 18-player swap. He took another big chance in giving the Brooklyn club $150,000 and two players for Palica and Ray Moore and Third Baseman Billy Cox.

Richards will know more about his deals in six months, but figures that the Orioles are way ahead of the game now that one player (Turley) no longer carries the destiny of the club in the palm of his hand.

"The Baltimore club might have spent a couple of million dollars over a period of three or four years and been no better off than it is now," explains the Old Boy Wonder of Waxahatchie. "Turley might have worn himself out pitching for a loser by the time Baltimore was ready to challenge the leaders."

"Pittsburgh hasn't done much with the farms in five years. With all of Tom Yawkey's money, the Red Sox are still in need of a shortstop and second baseman, and offhand you would say that was a serious shortage."

"Sure, would have liked to have kept Turley, but to have any hope of getting out of seventh place I had to give him up in a shortcut to a farm system."

Richards predicts that Hal Smith will take his place among the superior catchers.

Gus Triandos is considerably more than adequate at first base and the boys are confident that the gigantic Greek will hit.

Richards pronounces Willie Miranda the finest shortstop in the game, doubts that he will stifle the Baltimore attack any more than did Billy Hunter.

"Mirando now makes all the plays," says Richards. "He used to make the spectacular plays and miss some of the easy chances."

Gene Woodling has to hit to make the Yankee transaction stand up, but Richards' principal problem this spring has been pitching. An epidemic of lame pitching arms retarded the Birds—those belonging to Harry Byrd, Joe Coleman, Jim McDonald, Duane Pillette and Bob Kuzava. Pillette will be out until mid-May with a split muscle near the elbow.

That's why Palica and Moore currently are Richards' favorite subjects.

"Palica has more pitches than any pitcher in the game," he asserts. "He has a curve, fast ball, screwball, a slider and the change-up. The Brooklyn players said they couldn't hit him in batting practice."

"Moore, whose arm was sore until the end of last season, which he spent with St. Paul, is real quick and throws a curve and a screwball."

"We were fortunate to pick up these two."

In Brooklyn, Palica, who is only 27, never lived up to the promise he showed accounting for 13 games after July 4 in 1950. The Slovenian wound up in Charley Dressen's doghouse in '51 and then went into the Army.

Ervin Palica won't lack for pitching opportunity in Baltimore.

Junior High Invitational Meet Friday

The annual Harrisburg Junior High school invitational track and field meet will be held Friday, April 29, at Taylor Field, starting at 1 p. m.

In last year's meet Mt. Vernon and Harrisburg tied for top honors, each scoring 31 1-2 points. Twelve schools participated in the 1954 affair.

To date eight schools—Christopher, Mt. Vernon, Herrin, Benton, Centralia, Murphysboro, Cairo and Harrisburg—have entered and more schools are expected, it was said today by Louie Beltz, meet manager.

There will be 12 events—seven running events and five field events.

In track there will be the 50 yard, 100 yard and 220 yard dashes, the 440 yard and 880 yard runs, 120 yard low hurdles and the 880 yard relay. In field events the boys will take part in the shot put, discus, high jump, broad jump and pole vault.

Official to Visit Youth Commission Forestry Camps at Robbs

Donald J. Rolstad, a camp official of the Washington State Department of Public Institutions, will visit the Illinois Youth Commission Forestry camps at Robbs, Thursday, it was announced today by Kenneth R. Absher, superintendent of the camps.

Rolstad, assistant director of the Cedar Creek Youth Forestry camp at Little Rock, Wash., is making a tour of the Illinois Youth Commission Forestry camps. He previously visited the Illinois camp at Marseilles. The Illinois camp was located at Giant City State park before moving to the new site March 17.

Rolstad will make a survey of public institutions in Indiana before returning to the west coast.

Attendance is Off for 11 of 16 Major L. Clubs

NEW YORK (AP) — Kansas City's enthusiasm for big league baseball enabled the American League to show a 3.5 per cent rise in attendance today but crowds in the National League have dropped 12 per cent.

The figures show that attendance is off in 11 of the 16 major league cities and that even Kansas City's 133 per cent increase over 1954 Philadelphia attendance failed to prevent an overall decrease of about 5 per cent in the two circuits.

The five teams which have resisted the downward trend are the Brooklyn Dodgers in the National League and the Athletics, Chicago White Sox, Cleveland Indians and the Washington Senators in the American. The Dodgers are up 8 per cent, the White Sox 45.7, the Indians 9.6 and the Senators 1.7.

The New York Yankees, who drew 1,475,171 fans last season to lead the A. L., were among the teams with the biggest drop. Home attendance at Yankee games is off a whopping 37.2 per cent and the former world champions have averaged only 9,500 spectators on six dates—lowest in either league.

Other A. L. teams which show a decrease in attendance are the Baltimore Orioles, 18.5, the Boston Red Sox 38.0 and the Detroit Tigers 2.6. In the N. L., the Chicago Cubs are off 13.9 per cent, the Cincinnati Redlegs 6 per cent, the Milwaukee Braves 15.9, the New York Giants 10.4, the Philadelphia Phillies 21.7, the Pittsburgh Pirates 4.1 and the St. Louis Cardinals 17.2.

Unseasonably cold weather in most cities is believed chiefly responsible for the decreases. The fans apparently prefer to take their baseball via television when there's a chance of getting their toesies cold or wet.

Willing to Test Red Sincerity: Dulles

China of a cease-fire or a statement saying it would abandon the use of force. But the secretary said such assurances would be welcome regardless of how they came.

Dulles said in a prepared statement at the opening of his news conference that developments of the last 10 days may be of "decisive importance" both in Asia and Europe.

As a result of the Afro-Asian conference at Bandung, Dulles said, there seemed to be "a chance that the Communist Chinese may be deterred from pursuing the course of violence" they have followed in the Far East.

Dulles said the Reds found no backing for their announced program of seizing Formosa by force. In fact, he said, the Chinese Communists felt it useful at Bandung "to propose to negotiate a peaceful settlement." It was at Bandung that Chou proposed U. S.-Chinese negotiations, and said that Red China did not want war with the United States.

"Whether or not that was a sincere proposal remains to be seen," Dulles said.

Authoritative diplomatic sources in London disclosed meanwhile that Britain believes the Chinese suggestion of Formosa talks should be pursued. They indicated that Britain may ask Red China to clarify its proposals and offer British good offices to start negotiations.

President Eisenhower discussed the Formosa situation and other foreign policy problems with Republican congressional leaders at their weekly White House legislative conference today. Senate GOP Leader William F. Knowland said the discussion was "a general review of the foreign situation" and that it "did not get into detail" about Red China's proposal of negotiations.

Knowland, who has strongly opposed direct talks with Red China over Formosa, had breakfast with Mr. Eisenhower before the legislative conference but declined to tell reporters what they discussed then.

New Managers Have Same Old Teams; Red Sox Only Club with Improved Position

By United Press
Mike Higgins has the Boston Red Sox four positions better off than they were a year ago today but most of the other new managers are finding they've got the same old teams.

It adds up to a bitter blow for the "baseball second-guesser union" which contends that last year's pilot was responsible for everything that went wrong. And it just could be causing some red faces among general managers who made the manager the "goat" of a poor 1954 campaign.

Marty Marion of the Chicago White Sox and Mayo Smith of the Philadelphia Phillies are the only other new pilots who have their teams doing about as well as they did in the first two weeks of last season. Marion has the White Sox leading the American league just as they did a year ago under Paul Richards and Smith's Phillies are in fifth place in the National league just as they were on this date last year under Steve O'Neill.

But those who expected miracles from Charley Dressen of the Washington Senators, Buck Harris of the Detroit Tigers, Lou Boudreau of the Kansas City Athletics and Richards' Baltimore Orioles have been rudely surprised. They'd all gladly settle for the starts their teams made last year.

Higgins: With a 7-4 record the Red Sox are tied for second place. A year ago they had a 4-6 record and were tied for seventh place.

Marion: The White Sox' current 6-3 record and first-place standing is equal—or even slightly better—than their 7-4 mark which was good enough for first place in 1954.

Smith: The Phillies have a 6-6 current record compared to 5-6 last season but they're in the same spot in the standings—fifth.

Dressen: The Senators were tied for second place with a 6-4 record a year ago. Today, they're tied for fourth with a 5-5 mark.

Harris: Same as Dressen—Tigers were second with 6-4 record last season, now share fourth place with Senators and 5-5 mark.

Boudreau: The Athletics actually were tied for fourth place with a 5-5 record on April 26, 1954. They've dropped seven of 10 games this year and are languishing in seventh place.

Richards: A 4-7 record had the Orioles in last place a year ago. Today a 3-9 record has 'em even deeper in the cellar.

East Goes West

East goes west in the American league and vice versa in the National league today and tonight in the first inter-sectional meetings of the new campaign. The early going found all three major contenders in the A. L. off fairly well with the Cleveland Indians, New York Yankees and White Sox over 500. In the National league, the Brooklyn Dodgers and Milwaukee Braves are off and running but the world champion New York Giants are two games under .500.

The Yankees, who haven't had great strength but seem to be really jelled, open a two-game series with the first-place White Sox in Chicago while Baltimore is at Detroit, Washington at Cleveland and

Bull Dogs Beat W. Frankfort, 3-1, For Fifth Straight

The Harrisburg Bull Dogs won their fifth straight game of the season at West Frankfort yesterday afternoon, beating the Red Birds 3-1 in an extra-inning baseball contest.

The undefeated locals scored two runs in the eighth and final frame to break a 1 to 1 tie and come home with a win. High schools play seven-inning contests.

Darrell Powell, left, went all the way for the locals on the mound although his wildness had him in trouble on several occasions and was solely responsible for the lone Frankfort run. He allowed six hits and had five strikeouts. Powell was opposed by Bill Raubach, who permitted but four hits and struck out four.

Harrisburg scored first in the initial frame when Jim Cummins walked, was sacrificed to second by Russ McDowell and scored on a single by Wayman Hefner.

Frankfort tied the count in the second when Powell hit two batters to give them a base, filled the bases with a walk, then walked in a run.

The score remained tied until the eighth. Then, with two out, Jim Cummins singled. Dave Anglin batted for Ron Mitchell and was safe on a wild throw, going to second and Cummins going all the way around to score on the error. Then Hefner batted in his second run of the game by singling home Anglin.

Harrisburg players were Jim Cummins ss, Ron Mitchell and John Ziegler lb, Russ McDowell 3b, Wayman Hefner rf, Ken Spurlock cf, David Reese, rf, Ray Hassett c, Darrell Powell p and Dave Anglin, who batted for Mitchell in the eighth.

Besides the two hits by Hefner and one by Cummins, Mitchell got the other safety of the four collected by Harrisburg.

Tomorrow Marion plays here at 4 p. m. Thursday the locals go to Marion.

National League Leads in Homers

By United Press
It looks like the National League will be the "home run league" again this season.

So far this year, there have been 100 homers in 44 N. L. games, compared to only 83 homers in 42 games in the American League. Last season, N. L. sluggers hit 1,114 homers to only 823 for the American Leaguers.

Boston at Kansas City in other A. L. contests. The White Sox hope to prove they're top caliber pennant contenders in the New York series. The Yankees were 15-7 against them in 1954.

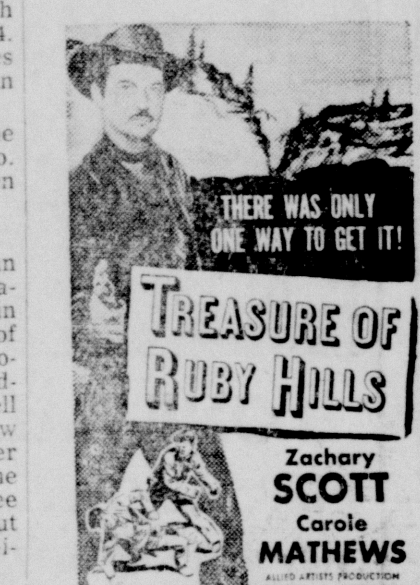

In the N. L., with all games at night, the Braves open a two-game set with a Giant team still shaky after its brush with disaster in Brooklyn over the weekend. The Braves have managed to stay close to the Dodgers with a 7-3 mark while Brooklyn has run up an 11-2 card. Other games find Cincinnati at Brooklyn, St. Louis at Philadelphia and Chicago at Pittsburgh.
